Beth Garvin

Founder and Principal, Elizabeth Garvin Consulting

Beth Garvin is an independent consultant, founder and principal of Elizabeth Garvin Consulting. Founded in 2010, her consulting firm specializes in leadership and consulting for organizations in transition to help them achieve fundraising goals, assess and strengthen operations and communications, and assist in leadership transition.

Beth has over 30 years of experience in development and alumni relations and has received recognition for her ability to strengthen organizations amid change. Her work focuses on aligning her clients' organizations to maximize fundraising, create substantive engagement opportunities for donors and friends, and leverage marketing and communications.

Prior to founding Elizabeth Garvin Consulting, she served as Vice President for Institutional Engagement at Rhode Island School of Design from 2008 to 2010, and as Executive Vice President and CEO of the MIT Alumni Association from 2003 to 2008.

Beth attended University of Cincinnati, where she graduated with a Bachelor of Arts in English, and Stanford University, where she received a Master of Arts Degree in Education. She joined the Board of Advisors of the Greater Boston Food Bank in 2017.
