Reena Thadhani

Attorney, Mintz, Levin, Cohn, Ferris, Glovsky and Popeo, PC

Reena Thadhani is member of Mintz Levin's Private Client Section and manages the firm's core Estate Planning practice. Her practice focuses on gift and estate tax planning, counseling individuals and families in developing and implementing wealth strategies, and estate and trust administration. Additionally, Reena is a member of the Immigration Section and advises clients on all aspects of immigration law and pre-immigration estate planning. She has extensive experience working with the US Department of Labor and US Citizenship and Immigration Services.

Before joining Mintz Levin, Reena clerked for the Honorable J. Harold Flannery of the Massachusetts Court of Appeals. She has served as counsel for the Greater Boston Food Bank since 2017.

Reena has been recommended by The Legal 500 United States for Labor Employment: Immigration (2014-2016) and recognized by Best Lawyers in America: Trusts and Estates (2018). She is an Advisory Board Member of the Massachusetts Commission Against Discrimination and the Past Commissioner for the Massachusetts Commission on the Status of Women.

Reena graduated from Boston College Law School.
