

Diane Bevan

Member, Board of Advisors
Member, Advancement Committee

Diane Bevan is a former Senior Vice President and Global Account Director for Jack Morton Worldwide, a global brand experience agency, where she and several of her integrated project teams won industry awards for exceptional work. For over 25 years, she built strong, long-term, mutually beneficial relationships with enterprise clients, specializing in identifying business opportunities, strategic account planning and execution, and building and managing global account management and integrated project teams. She worked with clients in multiple industries including technology, banking/finance and pharmaceuticals.

After retirement, Diane sought channels to leverage her expertise through active involvement in non-profit organizations. Her skills in strategic brand experience design, business development and relationship-building enable her to contribute to organizations focused on causes she cares deeply about.

She has hosted or contributed to numerous fund-raising events and activities and co-founded the Boston Leadership Council for Save the Children. She was recruited to join the Innovative Development Council for the Greater Boston Food Bank and is now on the Board of Advisors. In 2024, she was recipient of GBFB's Kip Tiernan Founder's Award. She is also on the Board of Directors of Community Rowing, Inc. and Chair of its Development Committee.

Diane Bevan earned a Bachelor's degree in Communications at UC San Diego and an MBA in Marketing from the UCLA Anderson School of Management.
